Yearbook Message
Chancellor Sherry H. Penny

You have done it! You have studied into the late hours, juggled the demands of your professors with those of your families and employers, finished your course work and met tough deadlines, and now you are credentialed. I respect your success, because you have achieved it against great odds and at a time when pursuing a degree has become financially difficult and increasingly expensive. Through all the cuts in the budget inflicted on our University and despite the heavy burdens imposed on you personally, you have not lost heart or the desire to learn. Your belief in education is extraordinary, and your dedication to meeting the academic challenges our faculty have posed for you deserves great praise. You certainly have mine.

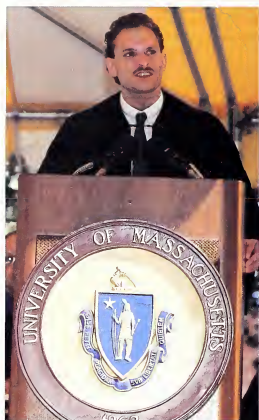

As I look back at the years you spent at UMass/Boston, I can see that we shared a commitment to advancing the common good. We together held true to the ideal that a university such as ours is organized to prepare its students for the duties of citizenship, that the quality of our collective life depends, in large measure, upon the quality and accessibility of the education offered. The University's faculty and staff played a significant role in ensuring your educational success and promoting your access to one of the nation's most diverse campus populations. Indeed, as you know, access and diversity are two of the central values that permeate the life of the University. Faculty and staff explored and celebrated with you our many differences — complete with their tensions and conflicts — and in the process, we together discovered our common humanity and common goals. Together, we held true to the principles of freedom of thought and conscience, to the notions of human dignity and equality. And we all subscribed as well to the basic concept that education is the wonderful process through which a free mind is cultivated so it can thrive.

In a sense, I envy you. A life and a career await you, full of many pleasures and, of course, some perplexities. You possess the energy to change the map of our society, and I trust you have the heart to surmount the obstacles that now face you. You are coming into a Commonwealth and an America that needs your intelligence and strength of purpose. You are as aware as any group of women and men at this particular time of what must be done to make our nation a better place for all. The need to rebuild and remake society is always the message given at commencement time to graduates. But in this hour of declining fortunes for Massachusetts, when economic pain frays the ties that hold us together as a people, your assignment to rebuild and remake carries a special and ominous sense of urgency.

If I have any advice to give you, it is this: Do not ever lose your sense of optimism or belief in progress. What you learned at UMass/Boston has, I am sure, taught you that the path to the goals of more equality, greater liberty and justice for all, and a fairer distribution of the nation's wealth has never been a straight one. At times in our history, the way leading to a better and more perfect republic has twisted into terrible dead ends and tragic conflicts. Our own chronicle as a people is littered with promises of a better life made and then broken. Living in Massachusetts, you know at first hand how the labor to build a more perfect democratic society is slow, grueling, discouraging and, all too often, contentious work. But always, the American people have forged ahead, guided by a splendid vision which forces us to heed our better natures.

I remain convinced that the establishment of a good society requires faith — the stronger the better. So I want all of you to be, and remain, hopeful graduates of this University as you work to improve our civic well being and bring about a more humane and just America. You carry with you my best wishes and my charge to you that you never cease in trying to achieve for your own generation — as well as for those that follow — the more perfect forms of freedom.

Student Trustee

University of Massachusetts at Boston kicks off every new school year with Convocation Day ceremonies.

Students were delighted by the charismatic speeches of Randolph Bromery, Chancellor of Higher Education; Sherry Penney, Chancellor of UMB; Mary Sullivan, Student Senate Speaker; and Jamie Canina, Student Trustee.

With a complimentary lunch and the best entertainment money can buy, a good time was had by all.

THE DOORS

What does the future hold for the doors of UMass.

Will they stay open, if so, what or where is the key to keeping them open?

Is there a light at the end of the tunnel?

VETERANS' CENTER, Harbor and CPCS

The purpose of this organization shall be to promote a greater awareness of the veteran to the university community, to educate about the veteran's experience in society, to maintain ties between the campus and the veterans' community at large, to strengthen student veterans' presence and participation on campus, to provide a wide referral and support system, and to provide a central meeting and informal gathering place for student veterans.

BLACK STUDENT CENTER, Harbor and CPCS

The mission of this center has always been to address the needs of the UMass/Boston Black and third world population. In addition, the Center strives to create an effective outlet to dispel myths about people of color while promoting multi-cultural interactions.

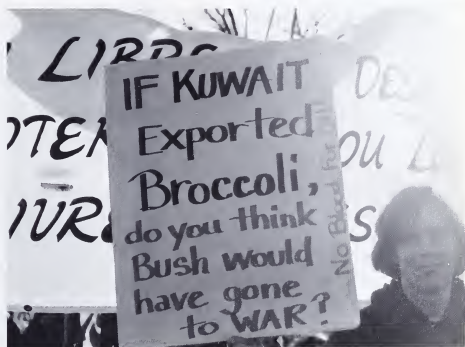

LATINO CENTER, Harbor Campus

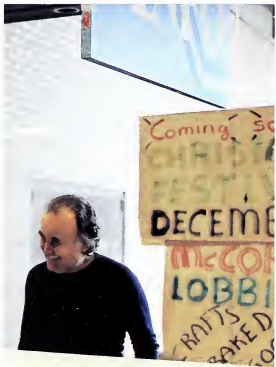

The Latino Center is the newest addition to our already diverse Student Life. This student organization will seek to develop a networking system for Latino and other students at UMass/Boston. The center will also provide students with a forum for discussion and assessment of issues concerning Latino students at UMB.

STUDENT SENATE

The UMB Student Senate is the elected student government body. Representing each college within the University the senate deals with issues concerning students such as tuition hikes, establishing student center programs and overseeing the budgeting of the Student Activities Trust Fund. Student Senators work hard during their two year terms advocating for all.

ALCOHOL/SUBSTANCE AWARENESS CENTER, Harbor and CPCS

The primary purpose of Alcohol Awareness is to educate the university community in regards to the use, abuse and effects of alcohol and other drugs in hopes of promoting responsible decision making. In addition, there is a drop in center for all those in recovery or who have loved ones in recovery.

A special project of the center this year was the raising of funds for the Day Care Center through can redemption on campus.

DISABLED STUDENT CENTER, CPCS

To promote a greater awareness of the needs of disabled students on campus, to act as an advocate for all disabled students, to assist in registration and course selection, to provide an atmosphere that is appropriate to their specific needs.

WOMEN'S CENTER, Harbor and CPCs

The goal at the Women's Center is to raise consciousness about women's issues and to create an atmosphere free of sexism on campus where women are free to pursue their educational and work goals. To this end, the center provides the following: outreach to extend the educational process at UMB; wide referral and advocacy services; a drop-in center for women; a support system for UMB students; and a resource service with a wide range of books and periodicals regarding women's and men's issues.

LESBIAN, GAY, BISEXUAL CENTER, Harbor Campus

Established in 1984, this organization exists as a much needed support center in the context of a homophobic culture. It serves to educate the entire university community around gay issues, promoting gay awareness, and combating homophobia.

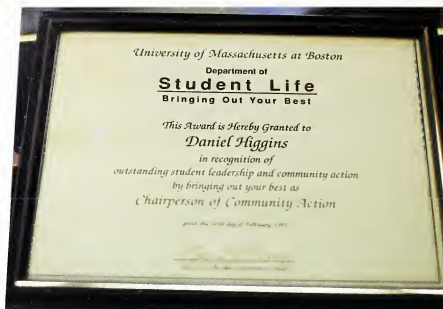

ASIAN CENTER, Harbor Campus

This center was founded in 1986 with the purpose of serving the needs and interest of the Asian student population at UMB; to promote Asian and Asian American culture by educating other students about the Asian experience in the United States; to strive for equality in educating and society; to maintain ties between the campus and the Asian communities; and to strengthen our presence and participation on campus.

The Student Center is the heart of the social aspect of the UMass Campus. Spearheaded by Sherry Thomas, the Student Life Center oversees the election of the Student Senate and works in conjunction with them. The Student Life Center also coordinates the Arts and Events Council, and all the student centers.

Through the Student Life Center and directed by Donna Neal are all the university publications such as Howth Castle, Prisma, The Mass Media and the Yearbook.

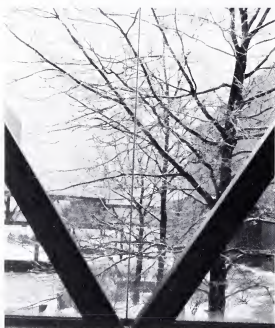

The Student Life Center also maintains a wealth of information regarding just about any question a student may have concerning life at UMass.

The UMass/Boston football team posted a respectable 4-5 record while fighting through a tough schedule that featured some of the New England Football Conference elite.

The Beacons played well in just about every game, including a 33-20 win over a tough Curry College team. The Beacons also crushed their arch-nemesis Southeastern Mass. University, 28-6.

The Beacons got off to a flying start with a 37-27 win over Framingham State College. Freshman running back Joe Rainone made a dynamic UMB debut by setting two UMB records with three touchdowns and 149 yards on the ground. Rainone finished the season with 674 yards, five touchdowns, an average of 4.9 yards per carry, and many memorable rushes such as a 71-yard sprint against Curry.

Quarterback Joe Mulvey from North Quincy did a solid job as well for the Beacons. Despite the Beacons' heavy reliance on the running game, Mulvey averaged over 92 yards per game and threw for seven touchdowns. His favorite targets were sure-handed receiver Dave Rowean (17 receptions, 244 yards, two touchdowns), Jason Trabucco (11 receptions, 182 yards, three touchdowns), and Mark Ferraro (12 receptions, 115 yards, one touchdown).

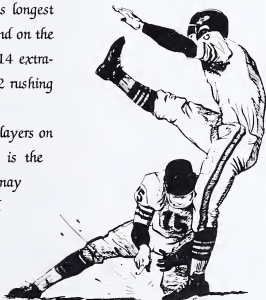

Once again, the Beacons featured a solid defense. They did what they could against the perennial powerhouses (Plymouth State, Lowell, and Bridgewater State), but did well in shutting down most of their other opponents. Tim O'Neill led the team in tackles with 102, (67 solo tackles, 35 assists). O'Neill and Scott Wells (59 solo tackles, 37 assists, three sacks, four fumble recoveries) led a UMB defense that was rich in talent as well as depth. In fact, ten defensive players finished the season with over 50 tackles. Among them was Mike Killoran who recorded 55 tackles and led the team with four sacks. Coach Jim Kent gave Ed McKinnon the defensive MVP. McKinnon earned the honor with 57 tackles and full-tilt, aggressive style of play.

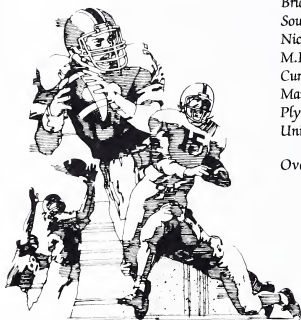

The Beacon secondary also played solidly for Coach Kent. Dave Maimaron led the team with five interceptions. One of the brightest highlights for the UMB defense was Tim Johnson's 49-yard interception return against Curry.

Return men Rob Ferraro, Mike Killoran, and kicker Scott Legg provided the bulk of UMB special teams performance. Ferraro proved to be one of the team's most versatile players as he wore the hat of punter, kick and punt returner, and defensive back. On the defensive side, Ferraro finished the season with 67 tackles and two interceptions. Ferraro complemented these stats with a 33.3 yard punting average, a 15-yard punt return average, and a 18.5-yard kick return average. The capper for Ferraro's season had to be his 90-yard punt return touchdown against Nichols College.

Killoran led the Beacons with a kickoff return average of 24 yards. His longest return of the season was a nifty 60-yarder against MIT. Legg finished second on the team scoring list with 23 points. The aptly named kicker converted 11 of 14 extra-point attempts and nailed two of three field goal tries. He also racked up 92 rushing yards on 28 carries.

The outlook for next team's squad looks very positive as many talented players on both sides of the ball will be returning. An added plus for next season is the revamping of the New England Football Conference. As such, the Beacons may be spared the grind of having to travel to opponents in northern Vermont and Maine. Somehow, I don't think they enjoyed the four hour-plus drive each way.

Any sports team looking for an excellent example of character and guts need look no further than the 1991 UMass/Boston women's basketball team. The Beacons were forced to play the entire season with only six players. All five starters averaged well over 30 minutes per game. In many games, the Beacons' star player and 1990 Little East Conference Player of the Year Eileen Fenton played all 40 minutes.

Given all of this, it would have been understandable if the Beacons had just gone through the motions of the '91 season and focused on getting through it as quickly as possible.

But they had too much 'intestinal fortitude' to let that happen.

The Beacons, who started the season with nine players before losing guard Donna Wozniak to injury, along with other players during the course of the season, finished with eight wins. Although Fenton was clearly the star, she had an excellent supporting cast. The Quinn sisters, Kerri and Colleen provided offensive spark as well as tenacious defense and rebounding. Guards Stefanie Shamshak, Sue Parry, and Amanda Church provided the Beacons with gutsy performances throughout the season. All of the players should be commended for staying mentally, as well as physically sharp through an exhausting season. A few ill-timed injuries could have eliminated the team for the season. But the Beacons stayed healthy and hopeful.

Fenton had another stellar year, averaging 18.9 points and 13.3 rebounds per game. She also blocked 53 shots. Kerri Quinn averaged 11.7 points per game and led the Beacons in assists with 63. Colleen Quinn posted.

The Beacons can only hope that their undying spirit leads to a high number of candidates for next season's squad. With Fenton's highlight-packed career at UMB now over, the Beacons have a tremendous hole to fill.

Aside from the many basketball awards Fenton received, she also won this year's Athletic Director's Distinguished Student Athlete Award, chosen by a department committee for overall athletic and academic contribution.

The UMass/Boston men's basketball team struggled at the hands of many setbacks in throughout most of the 1991 season, but broke free in the final two weeks to show their real selves and a lot of promise for next season.

The Beacons had the cards stacked against them from the early going. They lost two of their top players, Danny Delgado and Willie Nealy to injury, then lost Delgado for good in the middle of the season when he transferred to Boston University. But despite these devastating blows, the Beacons still had a talented squad capable of competing for the Little East Conference title. Unfortunately, that side of them did not come out until the final week of the season when they beat then Southeastern Mass. University (who were 19-4 and nationally ranked before the game), then crushed Rhode Island College, 98-67 to end the regular season. The Beacons could have taken the two impressive wins and settled for an expected loss to LEC powerhouse Plymouth State College in the opening round of the LEC tournament. But they weren't ready to settle. The Beacons upset PSC, then came within seconds of beating Southeastern Mass. University in the semi-finals. SMLI's Waldemar Sender took a re-directed pass and scored with two seconds left in the game to break a 73-73 tie.

The Beacons got solid year-round performances from forward Shawn Perkins (18.7 points, and 5.5 rebounds per game), Terry Kennedy (19.2 points, nine rebounds per game, 50 blocked shots on the season), Willie Nealy (12.4 points per game, 53 steals), and Anthony Roberts (11.9 points, 7.8 rebounds per game). Perhaps the most pleasant surprise was the performance of newcomer Jeff Jackson. The talented sophomore posted 98 assists and an incredible 66 steals in only 15 games. Kennedy is now second on the UMB all-time scoring list with 1,509 points and holds UMB records for average rebounds per game (8.9) and blocked shots (159). Guards Dana Tate and Ray Porch (who led the team in assists with 100) give the Beacons a promising outlook in the backcourt. The front-court will need some rebuilding, however, with Kennedy, Perkins, Nealy, Roberts all graduating.

WOMEN'S SWIM TEAM

Team Roster

Krista Merritt
Kerri McNeil
Kirsten Tuohy

The UMass/Boston women's swim team suffered a disappointing 0-10 1990-91 campaign. Most of the swimmers were new to collegiate competition. Team Captain Kristen Flaherty was one of the brighter stars on the team, characteristically winning the majority of her races by very comfortable margins (some even by one or more pool lengths).

Coach George MacMasters praised sophomore Krista Merritt as "the ultimate student-athlete" and awarded her with the team MVP. Merritt took challenging courses, cut 10 seconds off her sprint times (a very difficult feat), and gave the Beacons solid diving performances. As if these accomplishments weren't enough, she did all of them while undergoing cancer treatment.

In addition to Merritt, junior Cecilia Cartwright, and sophomore Tavia Glenn filled in nicely on the diving board. Flaherty specialized in the freestyle and the butterfly while sophomore Jennifer Child, and juniors Kerri McNeil and Sarah Kurko concentrated on the freestyle. Freshman Lisa Ferrone swam the freestyle and breaststroke events along with sophomore Kirsten Tuohy.

It is hard to give an outlook for next season's team because it is not known how many of this season's swimmers will return. As has been the case in the past few years, MacMasters may find himself in the unfortunate predicament of not knowing when and where his swimmers will arrive.

MEN'S SWIM TEAM

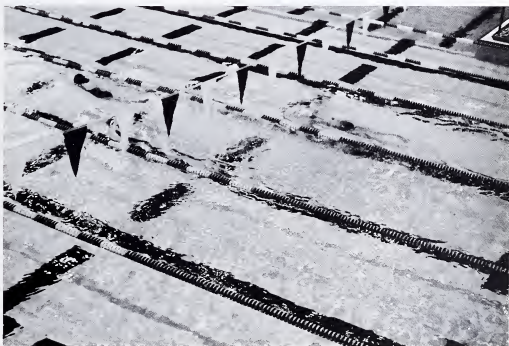

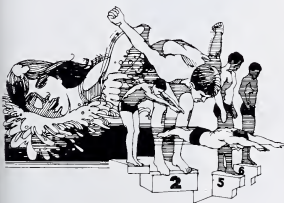

Team Roster

Steve Bache
Steve Greene
Jerry Dunlap
George Hickey
Wesley Hunt
Paul Simmons
Leonard Torres

The UMB men's swim team did not have a strong season as well, going finishing winless in seven meets. MacMaster awarded sophomore freestyle and backstroke swimmer Steve Bache the team MVP award and praised him for his dedication and consistency.

Sophomores Jerry Dunlap, George Hickey, and Leonard Torres handled the diving for the team. Hickey, along with Bache, put in strong outings in the backstroke events. Freshman Wesley Hunt swam the butterfly while sophomore Paul Simmons swam the breaststroke and the intermediate medley. Junior Steve Greene specialized in the freestyle event.

The men's team suffers from the same uncertain outlook as the women's team. Both squads are to be commended for staying reasonably competitive despite rough situations and low numbers. The men's team boasted a roster of seven while the women were a bit more fortunate with nine. Most college swim programs have at least 15 swimmers. Some have upwards of 30 or more. MacMasters can only hope that his returning swimmers will help him turn this season's losses into next season's wins.

Going through a rebuilding season is never easy.

The UMass/Boston wrestling team, under Coach Jim Police and Assistant Coach Marty Dundos, was pinned to a 3-11-1 season as they lost a lot of talent, but received a bunch of promising young wrestlers who have the potential to bring in the wins.

Junior Larry Grant was named the team MVP. Grant was an All-New England selection at 150 lbs., but was eliminated from the New England meet by the eventual winner of the weight class from Worcester Polytechnical Institute.

The youth in the team showed. The Beacons brought in five freshmen and two sophomores to follow in the footsteps of the three juniors and one senior on the team. The weight-class divisions were:

126 lbs. James Grover (Norwood)
 142 lbs. Sean O'Connell (Weymouth)
 150 lbs. Larry Grant (Randolph)
 158 lbs. Mike Cochranne (Dedham), Dave McCall (Milton)
 167 lbs. Alan O'Connor (Randolph), Tom Presutti (Braintree)
 177 lbs. Lloyd Lamarre (Mattapan), Peter Gates (Stoughton)
 Hywywt. Mason Sullivan (Arlington), Michael Maher (Dedham)

The team's greatest success was towards the end of the season in a tri-meet with Rhode Island College, Trinity, and Bridgewater State College. After losing to RIC, the Beacons bounced back to crush Trinity, 30-9, and hold off Bridgewater, 29-20. Coach Police hopes that he can mold the young team he now has into a viable contender.

Under the leadership of first-year coach Dick Bradley, the UMass/Boston hockey team continued their reputation as one of New England's top teams. The Beacons posted a 16-6-3 regular season record, but lost a 3-2 heartbreaker to Williams College in the opening round of the ECAC tournament.

Coach Bradley came to UMB from a very successful career at Westwood High School, making them a perennial tournament threat and state champions in 1985. Now, Bradley, a Boston police officer, has devoted his regimen of strict conditioning and discipline to the Beacons. The Beacons seemed to be headed for an average season until they heated up and went 9-2-1 over their last 12 games.

Leading the Beacons on the ice were a slew of offensive talents. Forwards Jim Geary and Jim Abban shared the team lead in points with 36. Abban took home the team MVP award in a race that could have had a four or five-way tie for the honor. Canton's Bob McNeice posted 31 points and plays a big role in the team's future. Forward Dan Fawcett won the William Puerto Award for dedication and overall contribution to UMB sports.

But teams do not go very far without goal-tending. And the Beacons were blessed with plenty of talent between the pipes. Vin DelVecchio and Tom Aprille combined to give Bradley one less thing to worry about. Both goalies started out with strong outings against Division I Notre Dame. The Beacons lost 6-3, and 6-4 respectively, but gave the talent-packed Irish a run for their money. When DelVecchio hit a slump in mid-season, Aprille came on and played brilliantly as the Beacons went 4-0-1 in their last five games and clinched home-ice advantage for the playoffs. Aprille finished with a 6-2-1 record, a 3.54 goals against average and a .889 save percentage. DelVecchio finished at 8-5-2 with a 3.86 goals against average and a .862 save percentage while freshman goalie Kevin Gibbons went 2-0 in three starts in his first UMB campaign and established himself as a qualified netminder for the Beacons.

The brightest highlight of the season saw the Beacons ranked #7, nationally in Division III mid-way through the season.

It was an off-year for the UMass/Boston baseball team. Usually among the leaders in Division II New England baseball, UMass fell to 5-21 for the 1991 season.

Despite a respectable .281 team batting average, the Beacons struggled due to poor pitching and inconsistent fielding. While players such as Dave Ellegood, Mike Fries, Rich Keddy, Brian Shea, Charlie DeFelice, and Jim Whitfield all had fielding percentages of over .900, the Beacons committed 63 errors for the season.

But the season was not without its highlights. Ellegood had another fine season both at and behind the plate. The talented catcher hit .392 with 19 RBI and 11 doubles. He also boasted a .968 fielding percentage and was perfect on the base paths with four stolen bases in as many attempts. UMB's John DiBlasio also had a fine season with a .356 batting average to go along with two home runs and 13 RBI. He also led the team with a .486 on-base percentage. Eric Frank also hit a stellar .356 and drove in 11 runs. DeFelice assumed the role of the slugger with three home runs and 16 RBI.

The baseball Beacons hope to learn from their unpleasant 1991 experience and return to the contenders they once were.

WOMEN'S SOFTBALL

UMASS — LACROSSE

Once the butt of many jokes at UMB, the UMass/Boston lacrosse team broke loose in the 1991 season to enjoy their most successful season in team history. After seeing only one win in the last three seasons, the Beacons finally got the breaks they needed and were able to assemble their talent for a 6-8 overall record.

Beacon scoring ace Sean Fitzgerald returned to UMB from his studies in Ireland to resume his role as the leading scorer. Fitzgerald scored 49 goals on 105 shots and led the Beacons with 82 points. Teammate Jonathan Hensey posted 45 points on the season and, along with Fitzgerald, re-wrote the team record books towards the end of the season. Hensey was also deadly accurate, scoring 27 goals on 73 shots.

Goalie Tom Aprille made the tough transition from ice to grass rather nicely and played solidly for the Beacons. The junior from Arlington made 306 saves and played all 14 of UMB's games.

With Fitzgerald and Hensey graduating, Coach Myles Berry is searching for the right combination of his considerable remaining talent to keep the new-found success a common fixture on the team.

Enjoying another year as the spring season's winningest UMB team, the UMass/Boston tennis team finished at 9-3. Despite the loss of last year's #1 singles player, Oscar Jara, (who moved back to his native Argentina), Coach Mike Bradley's squad posted another successful season. Senior Tom Savoie resumed his role as the #1 singles player and snatched his third MVP award in four years. Savoie was unbeaten in regular-season singles play and often made quick work of his opponents.

At the number two singles spot, newcomer John Sanchis, a transfer student from Valencia, Spain, posted an outstanding 11-1 mark and gave the Beacons a solid reign over their opponents at numbers one and two singles. Number three singles player Pat Finnigan continued his solid play with a winning season. Chris Lyons held his own at the number four spot, winning some tough matches and playing well with Finnigan in doubles play.

Newcomers Tim Perry and Amanda Church were a pleasant surprise with their steadily improving play. At the number six singles spot, Church snapped out of an early-season slump and played very well down the stretch. Perry had several fine outings and saved his best for last. In what Coach Bradley called "the match of the year," Perry pulled out a nifty come-from-behind victory over Roger Williams' Ramy Ash. After dropping the first set, 2-6, and trailing, 5-6, in the second set, Perry came alive. He fought off three consecutive match points and tied the match at one set each. Perry then fought off about ten match points in the third set and won the match in a third set tie-breaker. Perry told The Mass Media "(After fighting so hard) I was glad that it ended that way. It would have put a damper on the season if I had lost."

Bradley is hopeful that he can continue his success by bringing even more talented players to the squad. His hard work, along with the "Quincy Connection" that included Savoie, Finnigan, former number one singles player Jara, and former number four singles player Dave Bouley, has given the UMB tennis team a 20-4 record over the last two seasons.

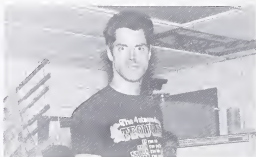

Hard to beat. But a team must have something to shoot for.

COURSE EVALUATION GUIDE

The Course Evaluation Guide, is a fairly new publication of Student Life. It seeks to provide the university community with an unbiased, statistically analysed view of the courses and faculty here at UMass/Boston. Hence it allows students to better select courses and gives the professors a class that understands what the course demands.
